

UNCW Leadership Lecture Series

Richard Leakey

“Why Our Origins Matter”

Monday, October 13 at 7 pm

Kenan Auditorium

Co-sponsored by UNCW Honors Scholars Program,
UNCW Student Media and Evolution Learning Community

World-renowned paleoanthropologist Dr. Richard Leakey has made international headlines for more than 30 years for his work in Kenya. Former director of the National Museums of Kenya, Leakey is known for his work in early human origins, particularly his expeditions to the shores of Lake Turkana in Kenya's Great Rift Valley.

Free for UNCW students, faculty and staff. Call Kenan Box Office at 962.3500 or visit www.uncw.edu/presents.

Above & Beyond: Dr. Leakey will host an informal discussion with students and faculty from 2:30-3:30 pm in the Azalea Coast Room B in the Fisher University Union. Seating is limited. For more information, call Shannon Hooker at ext. 7600.
