In reference lists, use the author's surname followed by initials without periods. In listed references, the names of all authors should be given unless there are more than 6, in which case the names of the first 3 authors are used followed by "et al." Note: The guidelines in *Citing Medicine*⁵ do not limit the number of authors listed in a MEDLINE/PubMed citation record, but, for space considerations, many journals truncate the list of authors' names in references and online bylines (but often with the ability to expand to view the full list).

Note spacing and punctuation. Do not use and between names. Roman numerals and abbreviations for Junior (Jr) and Senior (Sr) follow authors' initials. Note: Although NLM uses "2nd," "3rd," and "4th," the JAMA Network journals prefer II, III, and IV, unless the author prefers arabic numerals.

>6 Authors for or and a group	Doe JF, Roe JP III, Coe RT Jr, et al; Laser ROP Study Group.
Group	Laser ROP Study Group.

When mentioned in the text, only surnames of authors are used. For a 2-author reference, list both surnames; for references with more than 2 authors or authors and a group, include the first author's surname followed by "et al," "and coauthors," or "and colleagues."

Doe⁷ reported on the survey.

Doe and Roe⁸ reported on the survey.

Doe et al⁹ reported on the survey.

Note: Do not use the possessive form et al's; rephrase the sentence.

"Doe et al's⁹ data support our findings." should be changed to "The data in the study by Doe et al⁹ support our findings."

In shorter nonresearch and nonclinical articles (eg, opinion pieces, book reviews, historical features, letters to the editor), the author's first name or honorific may be used at first mention:

We agree with Dr Tayeb that the prevalence of domestic violence is difficult to determine.

In Growing Up Fast, Joanna Lipper profiles 6 teenaged mothers living in Pittsfield, Massachusetts, at the turn of the 21st century.
